

Recommended Kids Agency List

NOTE: It's important to still do your own research, we are unable to individually verify agencies are working to industry best practise. This is a hand picked list of our personally recommended agencies. This is not to say any agency not listed below is not reputable or should be avoided. You may well wish to use this list as a starting block. Several agencies listed may also cross over between the two main fields, so please check out their websites and socials in further detail to confirm.

Following lots of feedback and various requests, we are also in the process of organising a recommended training list and a recommended photographers' list, which we will circulate as soon as compiled.

In the meantime, we have partnered with the wonderful team at AUDITION READY and strongly recommend taking a look at their site. We have chosen to collaborate with Audition Ready, simply because we believe so much in their product and overall ethos of the brand, as well as the effectiveness of their app and what it has to offer to parents and kids alike.

Audition Ready has a whole range of videos available within their site. You can subscribe for full access to all of these, which includes everything from the amazing 'Parent Power' section, musical theatre workshops, accent/dialect coaching, mindfulness for actors as well as top tips and advice on audition technique, applying to agencies, the audition process, what happens on set etc, all explained by leading members of the industry including Casting Directors, Film Directors, Chaperones, Agents, Coaches and many more. We cannot rate this site enough. They have lots of exciting new videos planned which will be coming soon, so now is a great time to subscribe. Use our exclusive discount code Agent25 for £1 off the annual fee. Be quick – this is currently £8.99 (£7.99 with discount code) but will be going up to £14.99 (£13.99 with discount code) on 1st Feb, so save yourself around 40% if you subscribe before 1st Feb!
